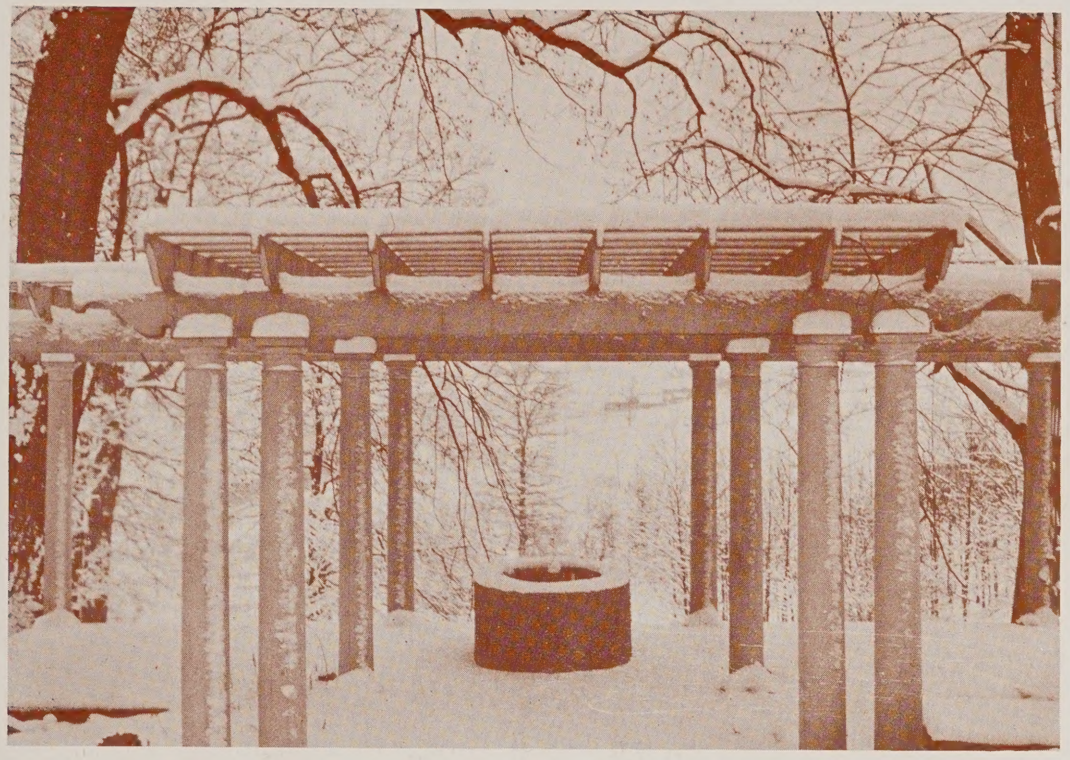
Alma Mater

On the hill stands Sullins College
'Neath fair skies of blue.
May she ever stand so proudly,
Glorious to view.

Through her halls the echoes linger
Of our college days,
Comradeship and love and courage,
Loyalty and praise.

Dearest Sullins in her glory,
Ever be our pride,
And her name we'll ever cherish,
Spread it far and wide.

Lift the chorus, speed it onward,
Over hill and dale,
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail to thee, all hail!



Pennies for wishes! The old wishing well, once located where the library now stands.

The hut and pond have taken on a new appearance

The columns of Baskervill Library reflect the sun of an autumn day.

A toboggan ride was as much fun then as it is now.

Sullins . . .

In these pages, we, the members of the SAMPLER Staff, have endeavored to highlight the present and the past.

The "Old Sullins," though far from what we know today, possessed qualities which made it endure through the desolation of fire and reconstruction on a new site.

Composed at first of only Martin Hall and a handful of girls, the "New Sullins" steadily progressed from a combination high school and college to a modern junior college. Year after year, the college has added new buildings and improved its facilities for learning.

Yet buildings are but a hollow shell without the people. The academic standards and personal ideals upheld by the generations of those who have assembled on this campus have made our Alma Mater what it is today.

These people are the Sullins traditions—the invisible thread that has bound together all Sullins girls—from the year 1870 to the year 1963. To these people and traditions we pay tribute in our 1963 SAMPLER.

since those early days.

The girls at the "New Sullins" enjoy an old fashioned sleigh ride.

The cooling freshness of the pond makes it a popular place in springtime.

TRADITIONALLY WE DEDICATE . . .

In appreciation, we, the members of the Senior Class, dedicate our SAMPLER to you—Mrs. Nelle Parham.

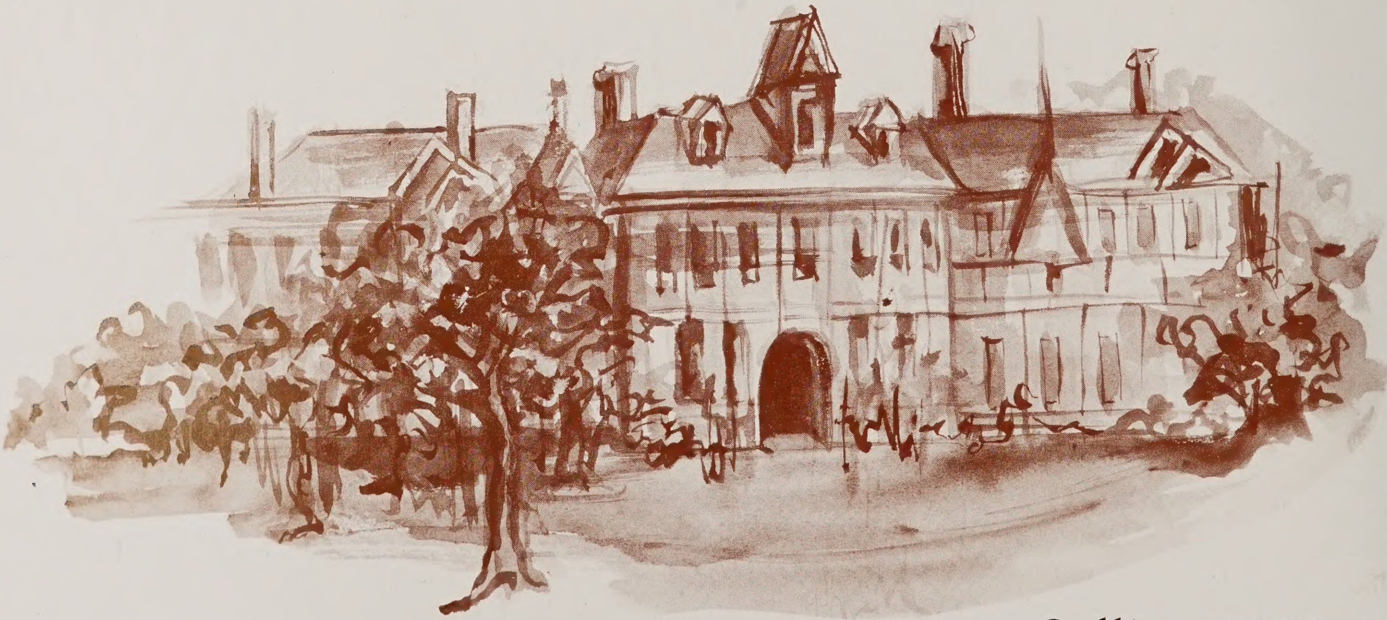
This year you have assumed the duties of dean of women at Sullins College. To us, the students of Sullins, you represent the friendliness and sincerity upon which we all depend.

We will never forget you; your hard work and interest you have continually shown toward all the students will place you high in the remembrance of our two years at Sullins.

Last year, as director of student activities and adviser to the Presidents' Council, as well as this year as dean of women, you have displayed the qualities of both a friend and an adviser.

Dean Parham, we will long remember you and the important part you have played in our lives at Sullins. We are proud to dedicate our yearbook, the 1963 SAMPLER, to you.

THE CAMPUS



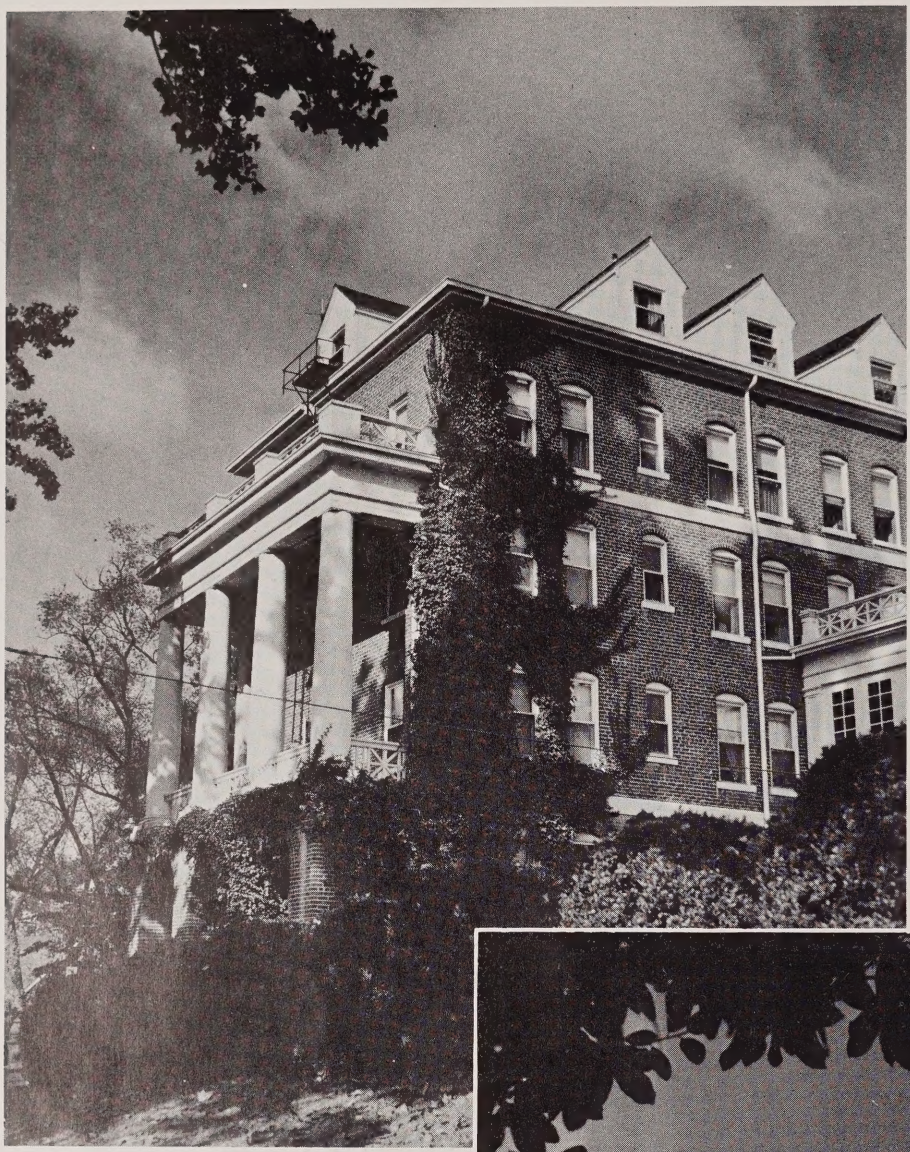
Sullins-1890

FROM MODEST BEGINNINGS...

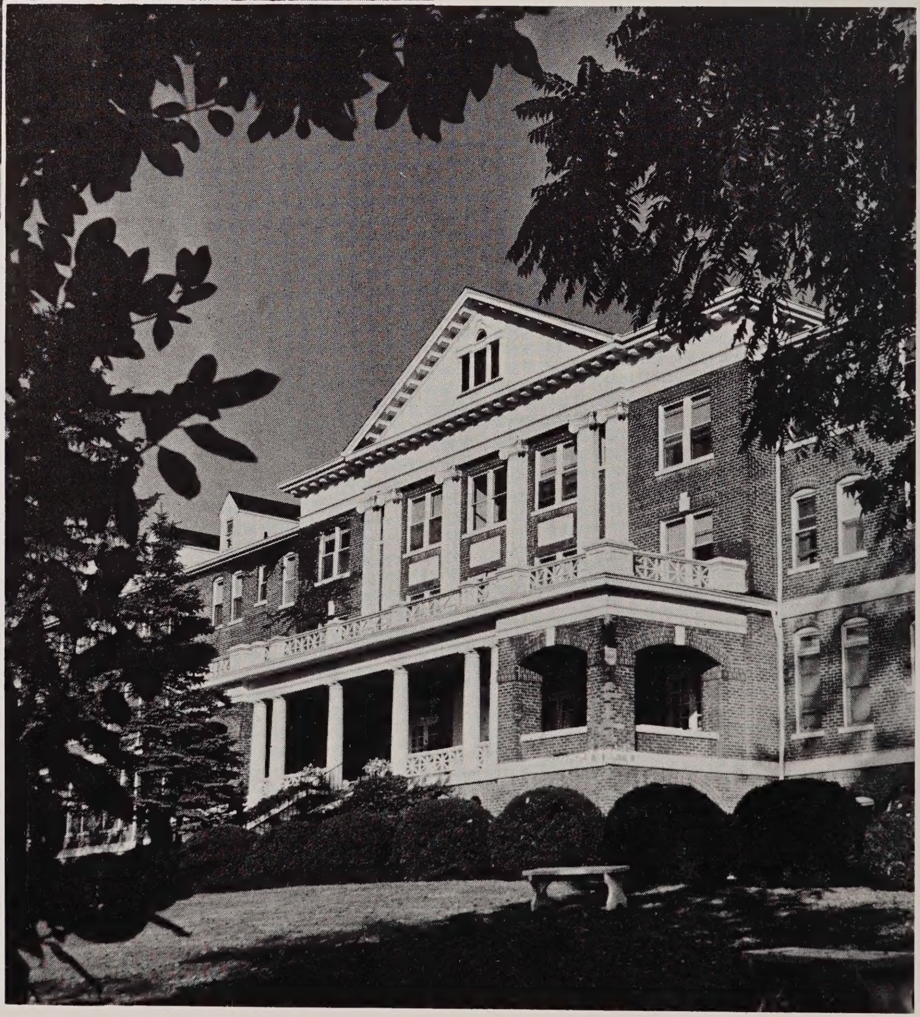
Mountain View High School was the name given to the academy that Dr. David Sullins and Mrs. Lou Chanceaulme opened in 1869. The school was located on the James King property and consisted of a large family residence and two other houses.

Later other land was bought and new buildings constructed, and in 1870 Sullins College opened, with an enrollment of approximately forty students. Gradually, as the enrollment increased, new buildings were added. Then, during Christmas of 1915, a fire broke out at the college, and the old Sullins burned to the ground.

To the Sullins We Know



Reynolds Dormitory, covered with ivy, is a home for juniors and seniors alike.

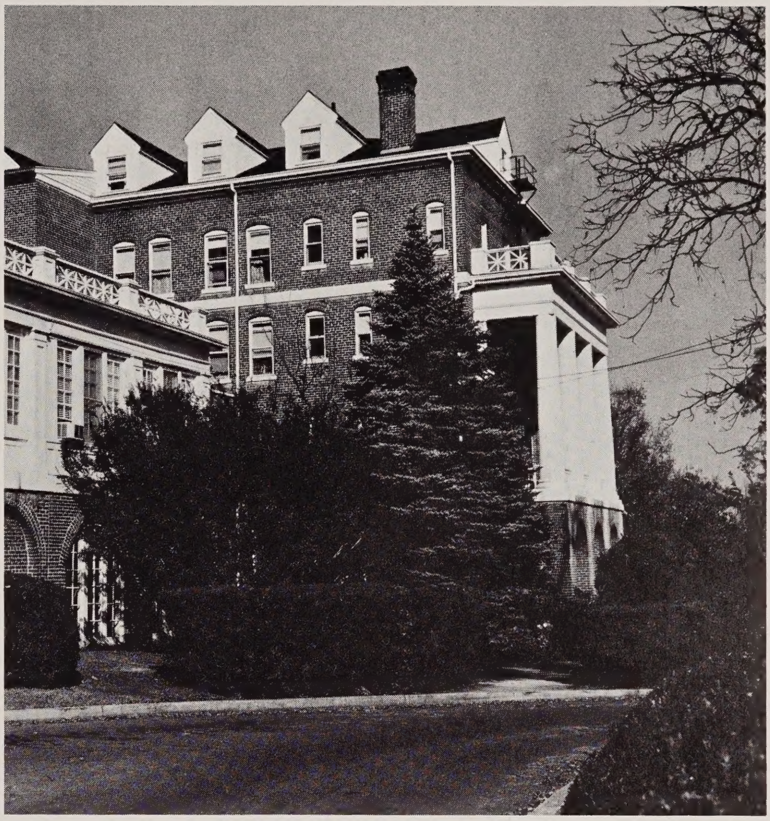


Martin Hall, the oldest, and largest dormitory, overlooks Bristol and the Holston mountains beyond.

In 1917 on a wooded campus in Virginia Park, the "New Sullins" opened its doors with only one building, Martin Hall.

As the enrollment increased, Holston Hall and Reynolds Hall were added, then still other buildings. Under the leadership of Dr. W. E. Martin as president, the college grew both academically and physically, and the landscaping and planting of unusual trees and shrubs was his special pride. As a result, in any season of the year, there is a spot of beauty somewhere to please the eye on the Sullins campus.

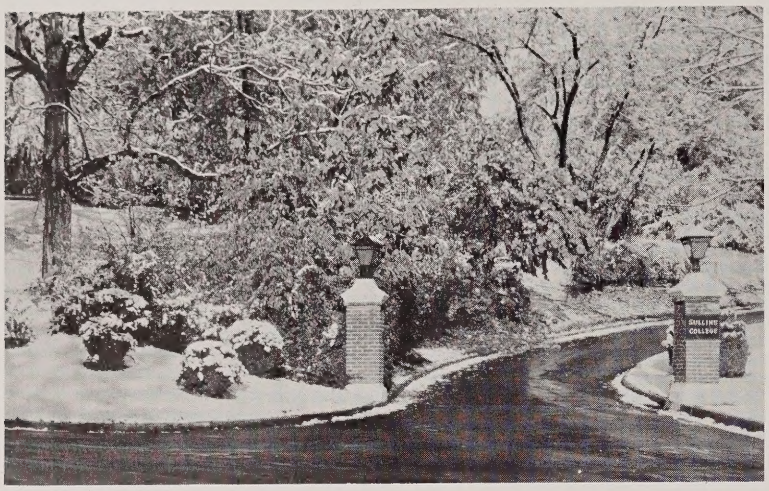
After Mr. W. T. Martin became president in 1950, advances were made in student government and curriculum, and still more buildings were added. Now, in the spring of 1963, the college begins a 10-year building program and is breaking ground for a new classroom and administration building on the east campus.



Holston Hall, with the traditional white columns, houses both classrooms and dormitory rooms.

Baskervill Library, surrounded by lawns and trees, is a place for study and enjoyment.

A GROWING CAMPUS SURROUNDS US WITH BEAUTY



The entrance gates welcome the visitors to a sparkling winter setting.

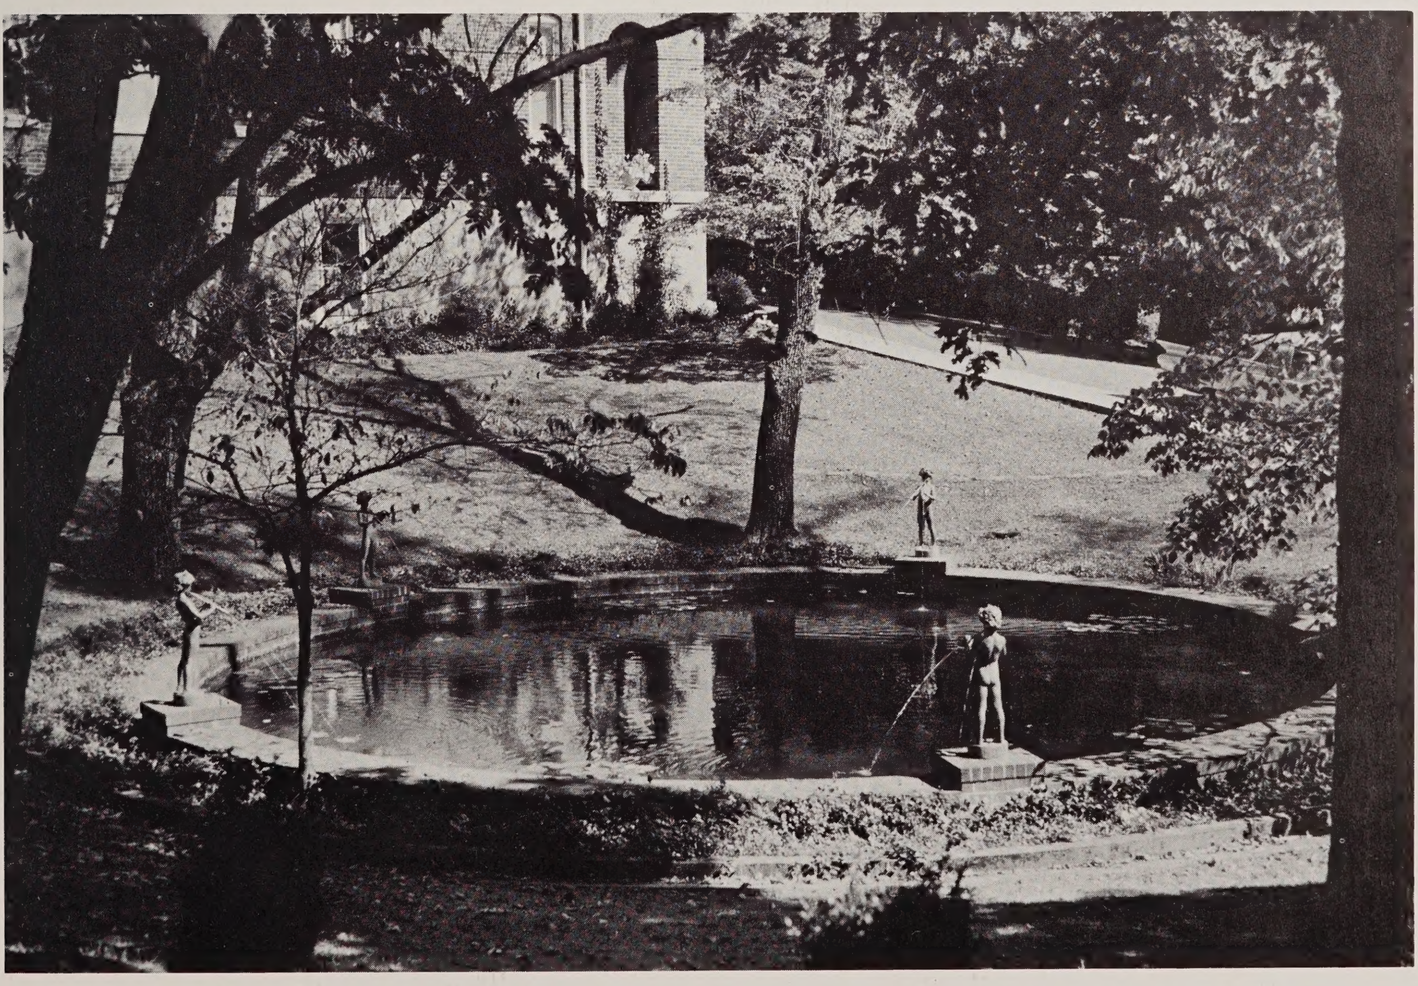
The Hoofprints Lodge is a favorite spot for get-togethers on campus.

Virginia Hall, home of the faculty, contains attractive apartments and suites.

The Fine Arts Building houses music and dance studios and the post office.

"On the hill stands Sullins College"

Everyone enjoys the Hut—whether for music, food, or dates.



The pool, amidst shade and sunshine, has reflected scenes of today and yesterday.

THE CLASSROOM

Where The Fine Old
Traditions of Sullins
Have Their Beginning...

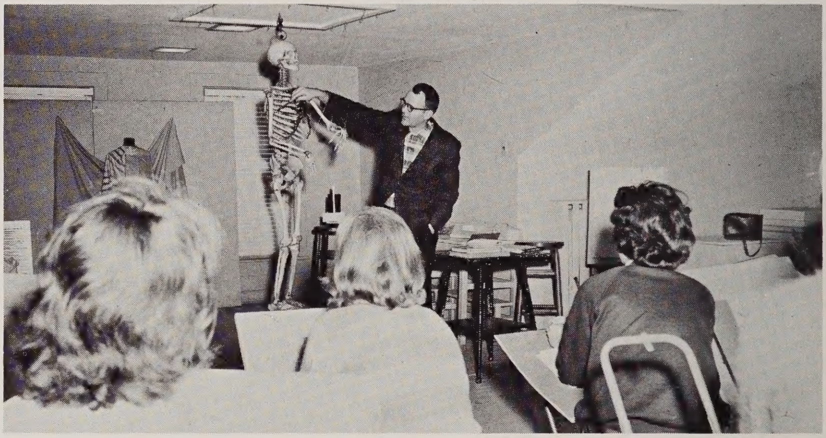
Hard at work, the interior design class starts a new project—planning interiors for homes.

ART

Students in art at Sullins find great opportunities for creative development.

Art history students study intensively the important periods, the characteristics of outstanding artists, and their influence on later trends and developments in art.

Individuality of ideas is stressed, and students learn how to express their emotions beautifully in many techniques and media. Frequent campus exhibits show us their work.



Mr. Nason explains the different bone structures of the skeleton to his anatomy class.

Mr. Marshall, Sherry, and Marley talk about their favorite subject, art.

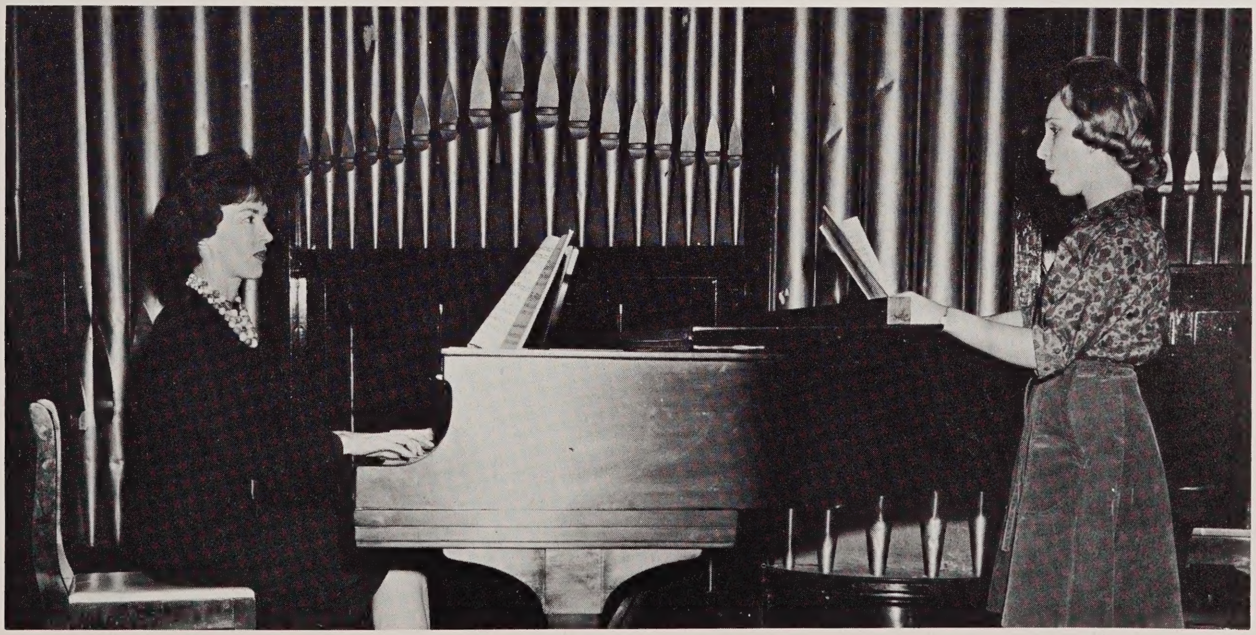
Miss Gemmell and Nelda discuss a composition that she has studied.

MUSIC

These students are among fifteen participants in Dr. Loomis' Symphonic Recital.

In the Music Department, students may study piano, organ, and voice. The excellent instruction the girls receive helps them to develop their musical talents. They may perform in the choir and the Symphony.

This year an entire quarter of the humanities course has been devoted to the study of music. It is open not only to music majors, but to every student in school who wishes to gain a greater appreciation of fine music.



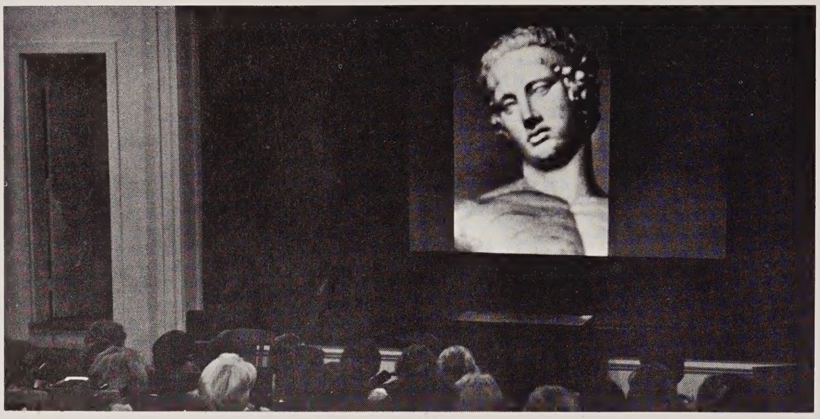
Mrs. Vance helps Jane with her voice lesson by practicing in the chapel before a recital.

Miss Milbrandt and Bunn discuss a lesson on Moses in the religion section of humanities.

Humanities, one of the most varied and interesting courses at Sullins, is a study of literature, philosophy, religion, music, and art, from ancient to modern times. It provides a music laboratory, where students listen to record selections, and an art laboratory, in which great works of art are shown.

This course, offering a semester of literature and a quarter each of music and art, teaches appreciation of our cultural heritage.

HUMANITIES



Students study slides of famous works of art as part of their humanities course.

Till Eulenspiegel
Till in the Market
Till as a Monk
Till in love
TILL EULENSPIEGEL

Teaching students to appreciate good music is the purpose of the "listening labs" included in the study of humanities.

The English curriculum includes English for Communication, English literature, and American literature. The first-year course teaches a further understanding of our language and its uses, theme writing, parallel reading, grammar, and the research paper.

English literature covers writers from Beowulf through the Victorian Period, while American literature includes the major authors from Colonial days up to the present.

ENGLISH

Anne, Cory, Poppie, and Betsy are busy working on their literature.

Miss Coffey holds a discussion group at home for her English students.

Mr. Scarboro and Mr. Turner discuss the qualities of a good president in political science class.

Freshmen at Sullins study Introduction to Social Science, a course emphasizing the political, economic, and social aspects of American history. There are lectures, class discussions, and extensive library readings.

Political science, psychology, sociology, and economics are courses offered to seniors. Modern European History and History of the Far East give students a better understanding of and interest in other countries of the world.

Mrs. Hooks helps Wendy and Betsy with a social science reading assignment.

Nancy, Debbie, and Julie do research for History of the Far East.

SPEECH

Sandy gives Bobbi an audiometer test as part of their work in speech therapy.

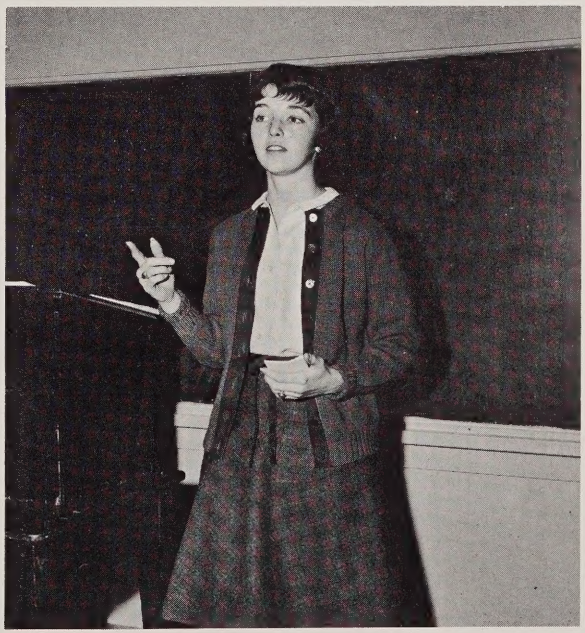
Miss Greene and her students spend two afternoons a week at the Speech Clinic.

Girls who take speech at Sullins acquire poise in both reading and speaking.

Students in Introduction to Speech Correction study speech disorders and observe children with these disorders at the Bristol Speech and Hearing Clinic.

Basic Speech, voice and Diction, and Oral Interpretation are other courses to take. Performing in plays given throughout the year gives students further practice in speech.

Pat Moynahan acquires poise and confidence in speech class.



Mr. Adair and Rawle work in the French language laboratory.

LANGUAGES

Sullins offers beginning, intermediate, and advanced French and Spanish, so that students may gain proficiency in either language.

Practice in speaking the language is stressed, and work in the modern, well-equipped language laboratory helps the girls in perfecting their pronunciation and accent.

Conversation in class or in small discussion groups outside of class enables students to improve their command of the language.

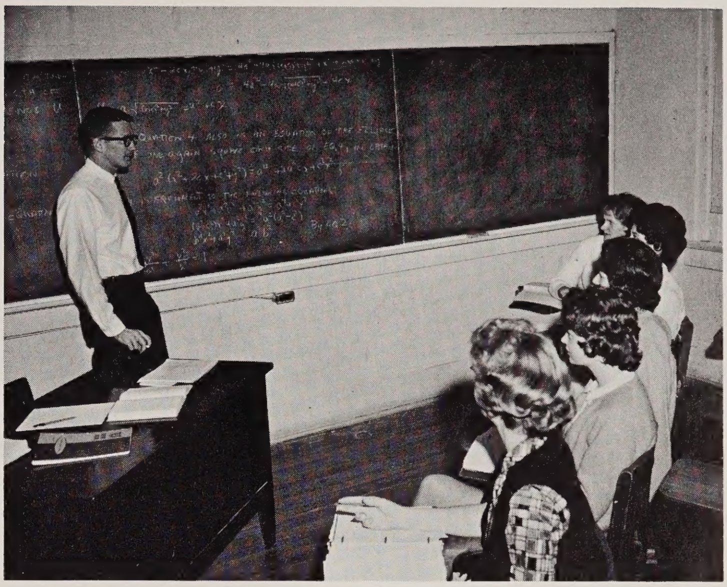
While studying France, Mr. Adair points out places of interest and importance to Claire and the class.

Mr. Turner and his Spanish Class talk informally at the Hut—in Spanish, of course.

MATH AND SCIENCE

Science plays an important role every day of our lives. Stressing this fact, the Science Department offers anatomy and physiology, a study of the human being, the biological and physical sciences, which deal with our environment, and the basic laboratory courses in zoology, botany, and chemistry.

The science of mathematics is explored in such courses as algebra, trigonometry, calculus and analytical geometry, and business math.



In his math class, Mr. Blacka explains an advanced equation.

Cynthia, Barbara, and Bernard study the parts of the body in Miss Hilton's zoology class.

POTASSIUM
CALCIUM

Mr. Vance demonstrates the intricacies of the telescope to his physical science class.

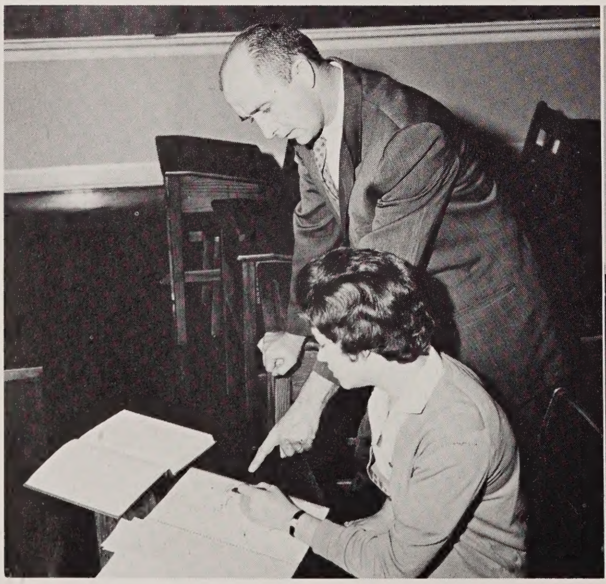
BUSINESS

The Business Department offers a thorough two-year course in secretarial science, in which girls may specialize in medical or executive secretarial training.

Besides the basic courses of shorthand, typing, accounting, and law, students may take electives in liberal arts and fine arts. During the last semester of the secretarial course, seniors work one afternoon a week in the offices of doctors and businessmen in Bristol.

Judy works in a doctor's office as part of her medical secretarial training.

Cherry, Faith, Ann, and Betty practice from records to increase their shorthand speed.



Mr. Knox helps Lea with her problem in accounting.

Robin's secretarial training includes working for Dean Wheless.

Anne and Connie prepare food for a home ec. luncheon.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Home Economics Department at Sullins plays an important role in helping to prepare girls for future careers.

Throughout the year, students are taught nutrition, how to plan meals, prepare foods, purchase supplies, set the tables, and serve the food attractively.

In the clothing classes, girls plan and make their own clothes, which they model proudly in the fashion show presented in the spring.

Miss Walker and Madame Sklarsky enjoy Jackie's luncheon.

Her clothing class helps Martha add to her wardrobe.

Mrs. Cash admires one of Martha's complete outfits.

The dancing class spends much time at the bar, perfecting their positions.

Madame Sklarsky helps Cathy practice an arabesque.

DANCE DEPARTMENT

The Dance Department gives any talented girl the opportunity of becoming a ballerina.

Madame Sklarsky is the director of the department, and beginning, intermediate, and advanced classes are offered under her experienced guidance. Seniors completing the two-year program receive an A.F.A. Degree.

All the dancers are given many opportunities to perform and do so beautifully, especially in the Mardi Gras and May Day pageants.

It is at Mardi Gras that the Dance Department best displays its talents. "Carnaval" by Schumann sets the theme for the ballet performance.

Miss McCarty instructs her swimming students in the fine points of diving.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

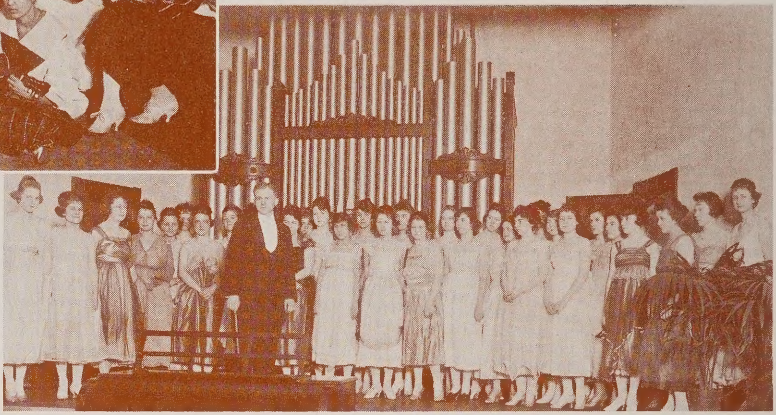
Good sportsmanship, fair play, skill, and teamwork are all emphasized by our Physical Education Department at Sullins.

Such excellent indoor and outdoor sports as hockey, archery, golf, basketball, bowling, swimming, and volleyball are offered.

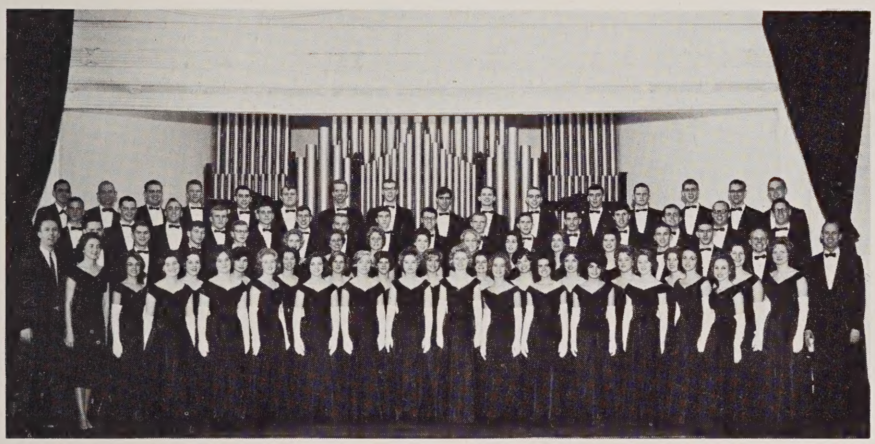
Horseback riding is also a favorite of many, and the girls have a wonderful opportunity to enjoy sailing, waterskiing, and boating under excellent supervision at the "Island."

Miss Hatcher gives Wendy last-minute instructions before the horse show.

The varsity basketball team doesn't have a corner on basketball. This class plays an energetic game as part of their physical education program.



THE ORGANIZATIONS



Almost every organization on campus today had its beginning in the dusty minutes books of years ago. Once there were secret societies with secret initiations. There were Red Cross girls who rolled bandages for the "soldier boys" of the first World War. There were glee clubs, art clubs, dramatic societies—exactly as there are today. There was even the nucleus of a "Pickers" group, though we don't know by what name it was called. So—time and change race on, but tradition checks the rein.

At Sullins student government originates with the Presidents' Council, which, with the aid of the Faculty Advisory Committee, supervises elections and formulates policy.

The Council, composed of the presidents of all organizations, the vice-presidents of the student body and Judicial Board, and the social chairmen of the classes, promotes school spirit on campus.

In addition, it provides each student with an address book, sponsors formal dances, and informal hut parties, co-ordinates the programs of various organizations, and plans the social calendar for each semester.

The Council fosters an atmosphere of good will and fairness by bringing the classes closer together and by acknowledging each student's right to express her opinion and defend it.

Encouraging high ideals of honor and fair play is the purpose of the Judicial Council. This organization represents the judiciary body of the Student Government Association, with its representatives elected each semester by the student body as a whole.

The Council, composed of the president and vice-president, the judicial representatives, the house presidents, and the Faculty Advisory Committee, aims for one goal—the better understanding of the student and her problems as she adjusts to campus life.

The goal of the Council is to improve the social, moral, and academic life at Sullins by helping the students abide by the rules. In this way, the Council serves not only as a disciplinary organization but also acts in an advisory capacity to all the girls on our campus.

Each semester, the classes elect a junior and a senior from each floor to present suggestions and problems to the council. The house president presides over the weekly meetings, which are designed to promote better understanding among all the students who live on the hall.

The patient, sympathetic guidance of these counselors serves as a co-ordinating unit between the Home Department and the house councils and instills in each girl concern for the welfare of others. At the Sampler Banquet in May, the dedication and the Sampler Superlatives were announced, and the 1963 books were presented to the students.

Miss Helen Walker has filled adequately the large task of the yearbook's faculty adviser. Through her calm reassurance and helpful suggestions, the staff has been able to make the book a successful recollection of the year's events.

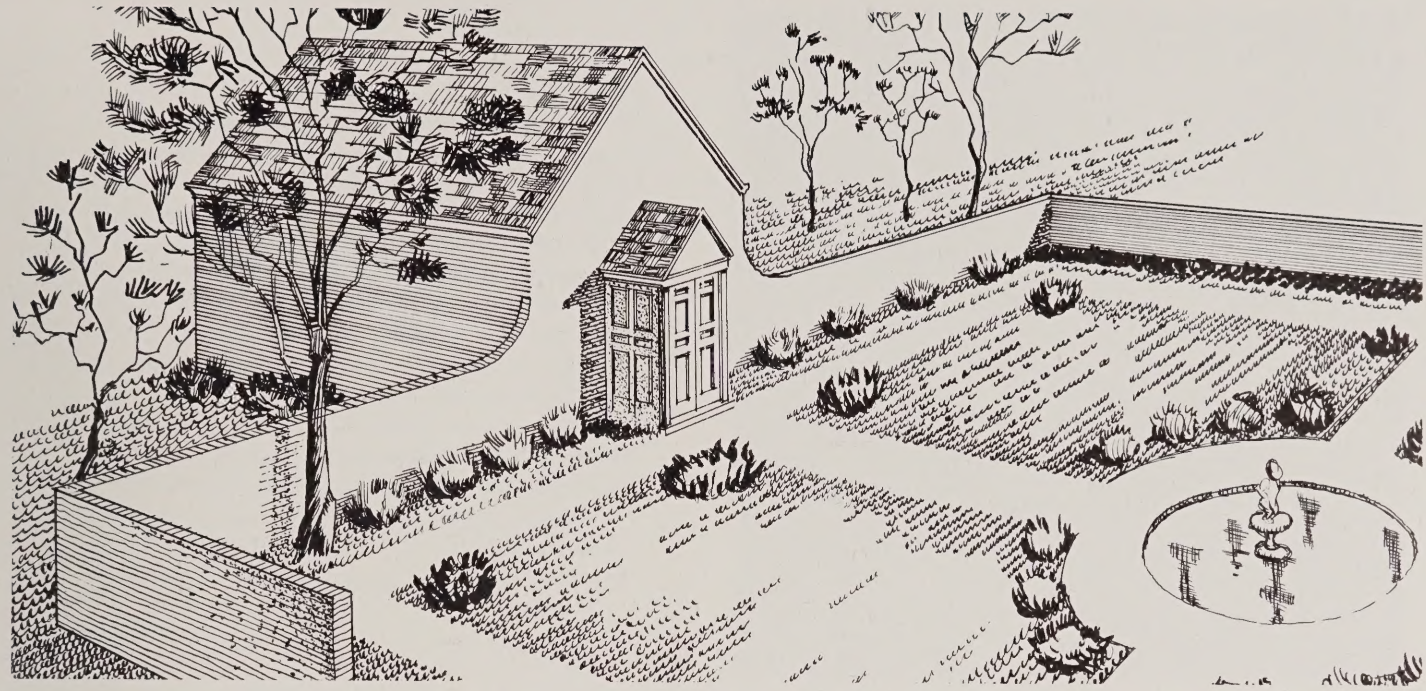
The Campus Religious Organization is a non-denominational organization which provides spiritual leadership on the Sullins Campus. Its purpose is to offer each student an opportunity to give unselfish service to others and to participate regularly in religious programs presented in our chapel.

The C.R.O. Council meets twice a month with the adviser, Miss Jane Gregg, to discuss projects and plan programs for the year.

At the C.R.O. Christmas party, the girls give the children toys and clothes.

Santa Claus gives them a hug, a kiss, and a bag of candy.



An architect's sketch of the new Little Chapel, a favorite project of the C.R.O. It is to be located in the garden beside the Fine Arts Building.

Campus Religious Days, with guest ministers speaking at special chapel programs, are followed on the final evening by a banquet. The C.R.O. also sends Thanksgiving food baskets to needy families and sponsors closed curtain services before holidays.

Best of all is the Christmas children's party, when the chapel stage is piled high with gaily wrapped boxes and the laughter of children makes us all feel the Christmas spirit.

The Campus Chest is the only group on campus which was organized for the sole purpose of allowing students to contribute to charities of their own choice. The Chest, composed of representatives from each hall and the adviser, Miss Betsy Gilliam, sponsors an annual drive for student donations to charities which may be either local or national.

The Campus Chest is beneficial to student good will as well as to the organizations to which it contributes. The Chest inspires a mood of sharing and of unselfish giving to relieve the distress of others.

Although the drive is not compulsory, the students support it with a genuine concern for those people in need of financial aid.

One of the two honorary societies on campus is the Science Club. Its purpose is to promote interest in the natural sciences and mathematics while striving to achieve outstanding scholarship in these fields. To be eligible for membership, a student must maintain an over-all "B" average in her science and mathematics courses taken at Sullins.

The activities of the club during this year have included two speakers who gave talks on various phases of science. A doughnut sales project was carried on to raise money for future science speakers. The Science Club had its annual banquet in April and a picnic at Holston Dam in May. A candelight ceremony for the installation of officers closed the year.

The Art Guild presented a "Happening," which was a unique experience and an outstanding success. They maintained a rotating exhibit, painted the Mardi Gras sets, and were always on call when needed.

The Student Art Guild brought the year to a climax with the graduation exhibit, at which outstanding work was displayed.

"Act well your part." What familiar words these are for the members of the Sullins Players. As the campus dramatic group, they have tried to bring varied entertainment to the students and faculty, as well as create interest in the theatre arts.

"The House of Bernarda Alba," a Spanish tragedy by Garcia Lorca, was enacted in "the round" at the Hut for the fall production. Because this play was so enthusiastically received, the Players were determined to present another "hit" just as dramatic in another way.

"Kill her! Kill her!"

"Get out of here, all of you!"

"Quiet, quiet. There they are; they have a beautiful song."

"The Glass Menagerie," a fragile memory play by Tennessee Williams, was staged in the spring. It was given at the Little Theatre and played two nights to a full house.

Wit, talent, experimentation, and an energetic director brought to our campus a "new idea" in voices. The speaking choir, composed of twenty students, "sang" correlated humor and thought to their listeners, who were delightfully pleased and impressed.

The Players have held meetings once a month to discuss productions and future plans.

The Players get the stage ready for a special program.

SULLINS CHOIR

The Sullins College Choir presented its first program in December with a formal Christmas concert featuring Benjamin Britten's A Ceremony of Carols, which was sung in Old English. Mrs. Emily Kellam, guest harpist, of Raleigh, North Carolina, accompanied the carols. She also played a group of harp solos.

In the Mardi Gras program in February, the choir sang selections from Broadway musicals. Guest soloists were Edwin Miller, bass; Don Hyatt, tenor; and Hamp Richardson, trumpet.

The thirty-five members of the Sullins Choir joined the men's choir of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee, in March to present The Mozart Requiem at Sewanee and Bristol. The performance at Sewanee was accompanied by organ and orchestra.

The busy and successful year was concluded with performances at the Commencement concert and the Baccalaureate service. The Sullins singers were directed by Mr. Leon Fleming and accompanied by Mrs. Leon Fleming.

DANCE CLUB

Dance majors, future ballerinas, and lovers of the dance form the Dance Club.

Twice a year at Mardi Gras and May Day, the dancers put on a polished performance, exhibiting their year's work. These performances and other activities of the Dance Club bring to the students at Sullins a greater appreciation of this fine art.

Early in November, the club sponsored a banquet, with entertainment provided by the members of the Dance Department in a special program presented in the college Chapel.

Under the direction of Madame Besa Sklarsky, the Dance Department presented for Mardi Gras "Carnaval" by Schumann, with Mr. Tom Adair, of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, as guest soloist. Student dancers who performed in the production were Trudi White, Cathy Montouri, Cissie Clark, Courtney Adams, Sherran Holt, Carol Smith, and many others.

The May Day pageant was a wonderful closing of the activities of the year for the Dance Department, the club, and Madame Sklarsky.

PHI THETA KAPPA

Membership in Phi Theta Kappa is one of the highest academic honors on our campus. Each year a number of seniors are selected for membership in recognition of their outstanding academic achievement and leadership. In addition to the six girls chosen after the first semester this year, two others, Pam Hooper and Dianne Deilke, were invited to join the organization in April. Phi Theta Kappa is our only Greek Letter society.

On Wednesday, February 13, both faculty and students attended a banquet in their honor. The traditional installation ceremony was conducted by Mr. Martin and the sponsor, Miss Coffey, in the Little Theatre.

The symbol of the society is an old-fashioned watch key, which each member is privileged to wear. Phi Theta Kappa seniors also wear gold tassels on their caps in the graduation ceremonies.

COTTON PICKERS

Blue overalls, red-checked shirt, sneakers, and a dash of freckles make up a Cotton Picker, one of our hillbilly group at Sullins.

A Picker shows a lively Personality when singing, Ingenuity in playing "ukes," spoons, washboard, tambourine, bongo drums, shakers, clickers, and even the washtub. A Casual atmosphere is created on all songs, but especially on such loved songs as "Scotch and Soda," and "Shoe Medley."

A Kute smile and loads of Energy are shown on such campus favorites as "Shake," "Five Foot Two," and "Ain't She Sweet." A Picker is Responsible for creating gaiety after exams, during Mardi Gras and Graduation, and at informal parties.

The Pickers display their talents not only on the "Hill," but at many clubs and schools in Bristol. But wherever they go, these freckled gals create happiness and fun for everybody.

The Pickers entertain at the Hut during Mardi Gras week end.

THE ATHLETICS

Black bloomers and white middy blouses, riding skirts and side saddles, and white full skirts for tennis have long ago disappeared in favor of briefer and more comfortable garments, but the enthusiasm for the game, the spirit of fair play and good sportsmanship have always been a part of "playing the game" at Sullins. It is a tradition proudly upheld whether the game is lost or won.

ATHLETIC

Sports of various kinds have always been available for the fun and enjoyment of all Sullins students. It is the A.A., with its officers, unit leaders, and advisers that plan activities for every season, so that all students will be able to participate and make use of all the facilities available.

A "powderpuff" football game kicked off the fall season. Seniors and juniors met on a cold field in friendly rivalry. The game was complete with decorated goal posts, cheerleaders, and band music. A chicken dinner and a "Picker" concert after dinner were enjoyed by hungry players and spectators.

The annual Halloween party proved what good sports the A.A. president, Sherry Bradford, and adviser, Miss Marla McCarty, were when they posed for sponge throwers at their club's booth. They were stiff competition for the booths set up by other Sullins clubs.

ASSOCIATION

The Christmas season brought A.A. activities, too. The cold night and snow-filled campus only added to the season's joy as the girls walked to the faculty homes on the A.A.-sponsored caroling party, singing Christmas carols at each stop and along the way. Hot chocolate and cookies in the dining room were a welcome sight for rosy-cheeked but warm-hearted carolers, as they returned to the college.

During the late winter and spring, various intramural activities enlivened the days with competition between different units of the college. First on the A.A. agenda is volleyball, followed by basketball and swimming. A tennis tournament to show individual skill is the final activity to be played.

The A.A. banquet in the spring climaxes the year's activities. At this time awards are presented to girls who have earned points in the intramural, individual, and team sports.

HOCKEY

One of the most popular fall sports at Sullins is hockey. Even though Marion College was the only school Sullins played, at each game the "Susies" were filled with enthusiasm and a new determination to win.

Half of the fun were the bus trips to and from Marion and dinner at Howard Johnson's. Miss Nancy Marney served as a fine coach and cheering section for the team.

Although Sullins suffered three defeats, the season ended with a win over Marion.

It takes a lot of breath and energy to keep up with swift opponents.

BASKETBALL

She who jumps the highest gets the ball.

From the days of bloomers, when sweet young girls tripped around the basketball court, the game has progressed and has become a speedy sport for active young women.

Sullins "Susies" have not lost their fine sportsmanship, and they practice with the hope that they may win for their Alma Mater.

Miss Marney and Miss McCarty have done an outstanding job helping the girls to learn the new system of the roving player technique and to polish up old skills and rules.

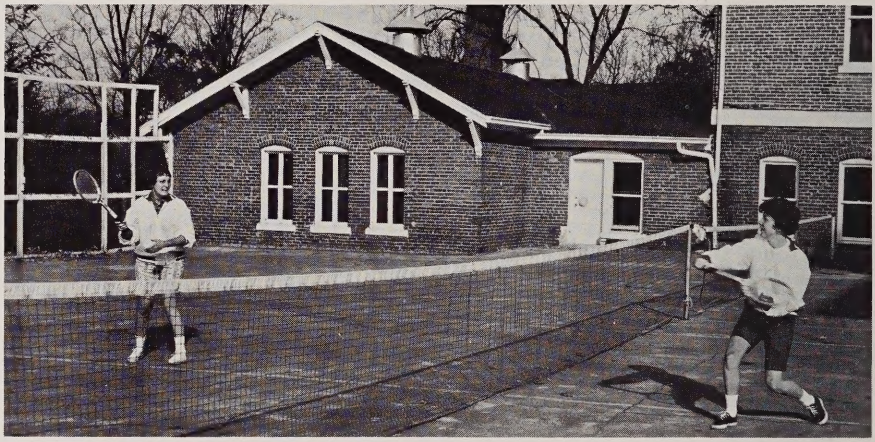
OUTDOOR SPORTS

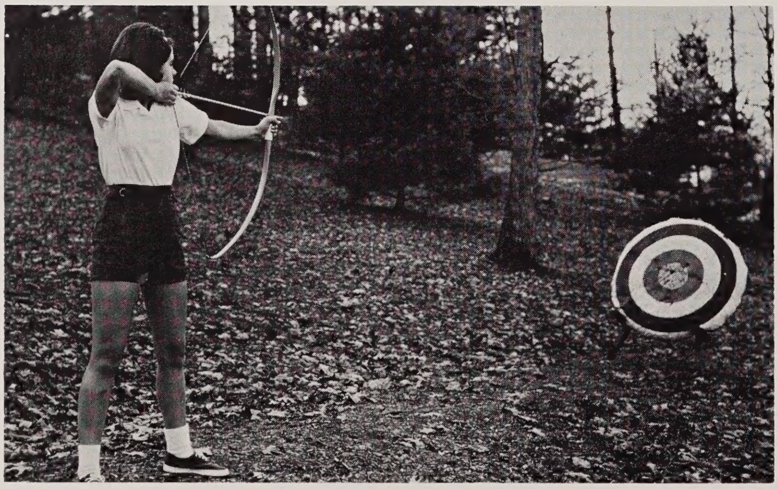
Gary Player and Arnold Palmer have nothing on these girls who have perfected their golf game while at Sullins.

Following a whizzing little white ball around a golf course (when the weather permits), Sullins "Susies" get their exercise. Learning about "birdies," "bogies," and "par," and the correct stance helps girls to perfect their game. They will be stiff competition for their golfing parents and boy friends this summer.

Smashing balls and swinging rackets mean that Miss Marney's tennis classes are on the court again. Only rain and snow can hinder tennis players from following the action of the balls across the net and all over the court. Practice and more practice may mean a trophy for some lucky girl who plays in the tournament.



Robbin and Ann practice vigorously for the tennis tournament.



A steady arm and a keen eye guide the arrow to the target.

The snap of the string as the arrow leaves the bow can be heard down on the archery field, as Miss McCarty instructs the archery class. Safety must be stressed, for archery is an old and popular sport, but it can be dangerous. After much practice and many lost arrows, the tired archer finally wins his goal—a bull's eye.

INDOOR SPORTS

A truly exciting indoor sport is volleyball. The player soon learns the skills, plus the meaning of such terms as let and net balls, volley, and spike. Volleyball combines teamwork, energy, and skill with the ball into a very interesting and action-packed game, both for those who play and those who watch and cheer.

Backward or forward, it is the point that counts in volleyball. This sport is one of the most popular and suspense-filled team sports at Sullins.

Lifesaving is a useful and enjoyable water activity.

Many girls became acquainted with the pool for the first time when the Physical Education Department gave swimming tests. The pool is used all year long by swimming and life-saving classes. It is also used for the annual intramural swimming events. The Sullins pool is open to every girl to use for recreation.

Like everybody else these days, Sullins girls like to bowl, or at least they like to try their hand at it. Every Monday they pile on the busses for a ride to Larry's Lanes, where each girl learns to perfect her skill in bowling. Besides gaining skill and form in the game, she gains exercise, relaxation, and enjoyment.

Strikes, spares, and even gutter balls are all a part of the game.

Trophies and ribbons in the Hoofprints Lodge are a source of pride to all riders at Sullins. They not only show how well Sullins "Susies" can ride but how long riding has been a part of Sullins.

It is in this lodge, which is open to all girls who ride, that the club holds meetings, parties, and a banquet at the end of the year. It is also available for any girls who might like to spend the week end there or for any other organizations wishing to use the facilities of the clubhouse for special parties.

In addition to its other activities, the Hoofprints Club sponsors an informal dance, one of the best dances of the year, and sells doughnuts in the dormitories on Sunday mornings.

The girls compete for ribbons and trophies at the spring horse show.

Keen competition provides excitement for the exhibitors.

For the beginner, the walk down the hill to the stables and to the horses which seem to be monsters is much too short. Miss Hatcher, however, soon teaches each rider how to master the horses, and by the end of the year even the beginners are able to show their skill at horse shows. The more advanced riders travel to Blountville and Kingsport to compete with area riders. The less advanced riders go along to cheer those who bring back the ribbons.

The big events which all the riders look forward to are the two horse shows held on the Sullins campus. In May, there is a show for all riders. The more advanced riders perform for parents and friends at the commencement horse show. President Martin presents the Dr. W. E. Martin Memorial Trophy to the best saddle seat rider, and a championship trophy is presented for the best hunter seat rider. These are the most coveted awards.

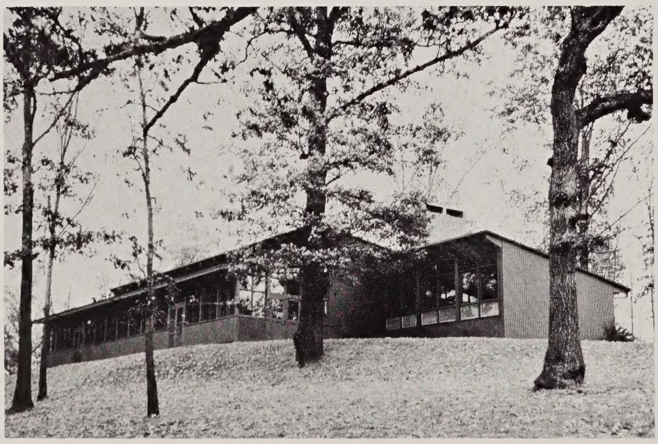
Ann Ulrich, on Mousie, displays ease and confidence over a jump at the horse show.

Holston Lake and the Olympic size pool provide recreation at the Island during the spring and fall months.

THE ISLAND

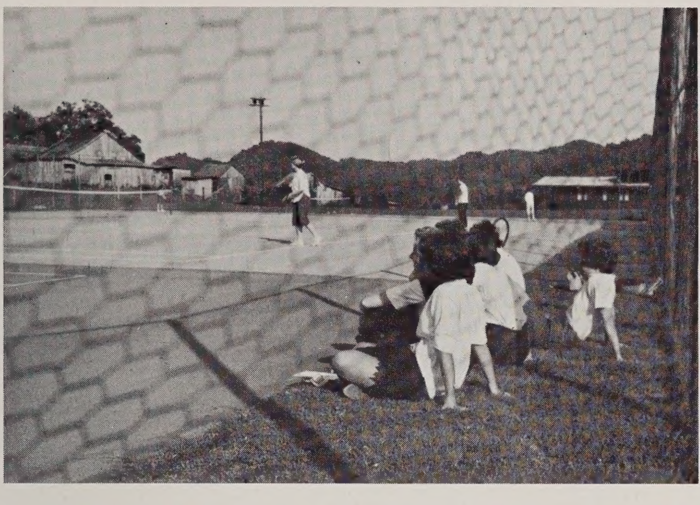
Camp Sequoya was moved from Bristol in 1958 to its present site on the Holston Lake, known to Sullins girls as "The Island." The Island has provided many pleasure-filled hours for both young campers and girls attending Sullins. It has excellent facilities for indoor and outdoor sports of every kind.

The Island is a pleasant retreat, providing the relaxation needed after a busy week at school. Almost every Saturday, a number of girls, accompanied by Miss McCarty, spend the week end at the lodge, playing records, strumming the uke, singing songs together, reading, and generally having a good time.



The spacious dining hall is an execellent place for Picker parties and informal afternoon dances.

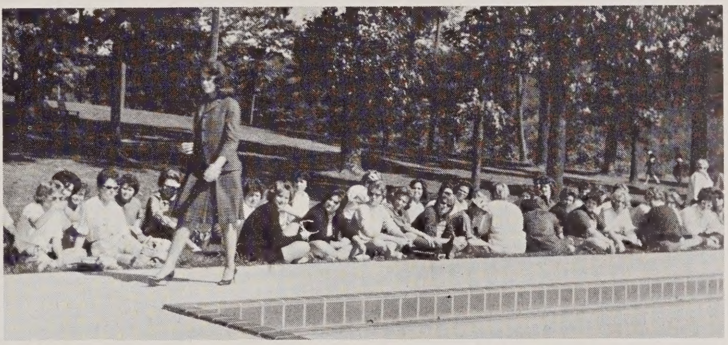
The lodge, with its cozy fireplace, is a week-end retreat for many Sullins girls.



Tennis is only one of the many sports enjoyed at the Island.

Holston Lake is a good place for sailfish and canoes.

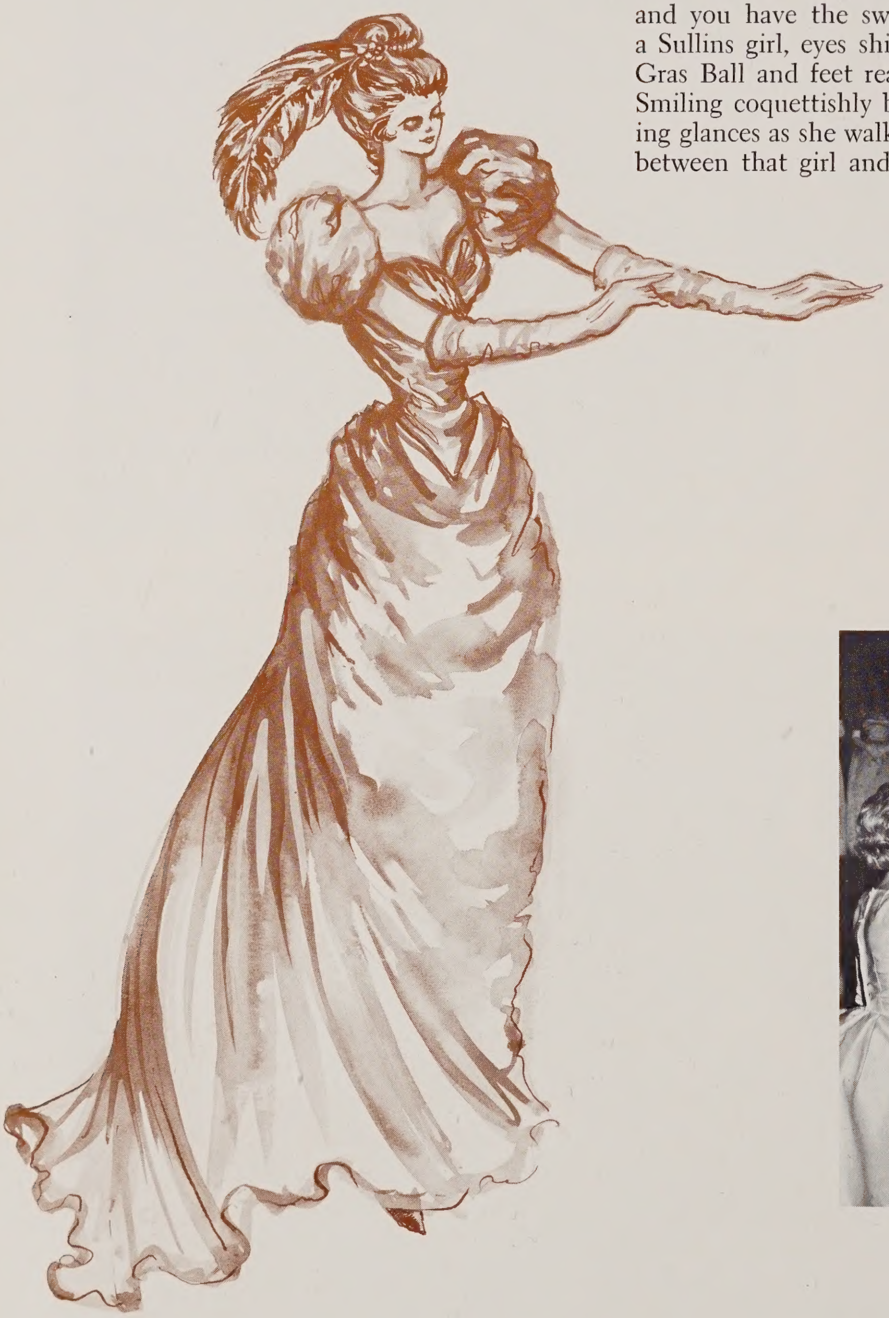
Our first trip to the Island was during Orientation Week. When we arrived, we were entertained by a fashion show. Then for a few hours we were free to use any of the facilities at the Island, which include sailing, waterskiing, tennis, archery, and canoeing. The spacious gym, used for basketball and volleyball, was also available. After supper, everyone went to the gym, to see the skits presented by the different halls and to hear the Cotton Pickers.



A shady lawn by a quiet pool is an ideal setting for any fashion show.

At the Island the girls enjoy all the comforts of home—a warm fire, friends, and even a dog.

THE ACTIVITIES



Take away the strange hairdos, the "tacky" clothes, the heavy stockings, the outmoded shoes of another day, and you have the sweet, young, unsophisticated face of a Sullins girl, eyes shining with excitement over a Mardi Gras Ball and feet ready to dance at the first invitation. Smiling coquettishly behind her mask, she gathers admiring glances as she walks. Is there really so much difference between that girl and the Sullins girl of today?

GRAS

MARDI GRAS QUEEN

Bernard Ladd
Mardi Gras Queen

At first the traditional Mardi Gras was only a Mardi Gras Ball, staged elaborately in the college dining room, with a king and queen and ladies and gentlemen of the court. After the program, there was dancing and prizes were given for the best costumes.

Our Mardi Gras has grown into a whole week end of festivities. The king and queen have become the queen and princess, and the scene of the ball has changed from the dining room to the grand ballroom of the General Shelby Hotel. This tradition we pass on.

THE MAY QUEEN

CONNIE REID
May Queen

The 1927 SAMPLER writes of the May Festival: "Bugles announced the King and Queen of the May and their attendants—joyous bugles blown by knights on horseback . . . under the arch formed by their gleaming swords, the royal court marched down to the throne."

Today the knights on horseback, the king, and the gentlemen of the court have gone by the way of tradition. Now we honor a May Queen, a princess, two pages, and twenty lovely ladies of the court. It is a tradition that we love to keep and pass on to other Sullins girls.

GETTING ACQUAINTED

Students on Second Martin enter the Skit Contest at the Island.

Orientation Week started a new way of life for the juniors in September. The week ended with a trip to the Island for the whole school. After a fashion show and an afternoon of swimming, sailing, canoeing, playing tennis, or whatever each girl wanted to do, the juniors put on skits for the seniors, and Second Holston won a cake as the prize. September ended with the annual reception given by the seniors, who presented their little sisters to the Senior Class officers and the administration.

The seniors entertain the juniors at the Senior Reception.

After a wonderful week end at V.P.I., it was a shame that Rat Week had to start for the juniors early in October. The first big shock came during a junior assembly, when suddenly the lights went out and the seniors ran in, dressed all in black, with painted faces and wildly teased hair. Rat Week was upon us!

Rats had to wear bermudas and heels and carry their books in pillow cases. On Wednesday, Rat Court was held; awards were given, and then Rat Week was officially ended.

"Two lowly rats" are caught and must obey the commands of the seniors.

Rat court is held.

ENJOYING THE FUN

The first formal dance was Fall Frolics, with the theme "Autumn Carousel." It was well attended by boys from out of town, as well as by boys from the local stag line.

Late in October, Dean and Mrs. Wheless held open house for the whole school. The school was further entertained by the first of the Campus Arts Series, Under Milk Wood, by Dylan Thomas, and by a community concert featuring the famous ballet dancers, Kovach and Rabovsky. Because of this program, the Halloween party was held on October 30.

Dean and Mrs. Wheless hold open house in their new home.

The Halloween Party was lots of fun. Booths and games were sponsored by the different organizations on campus, and prizes were given for the best and most original costumes.

November started with the Senior Dance, an informal affair, with the Euterpeans providing the music. The Sullins Players performed "The House of Bernarda Alba" at the Hut in the theater in the round. Thanksgiving brought a thrilling trip to New York for many of the girls and the first trip home for some homesick juniors who were counting the days.

HOL

The brief Thanksgiving holidays were now behind us, and we all were preparing for the three short weeks until our Christmas vacation. The days seemed to drag, but were hastened by the preparation for the SAMPLER Dance on December 9. It was quite difficult to find time to study, with all the extra activities and everyone thinking of home and family far away.

Suddenly our doors and the school parlors took on a Christmasy look. It was the night of the Junior-Senior Banquet. After a hurried dinner, we dashed to the chapel to learn about the Mardi Gras royalty. Once the court and pages were announced, there was a dead silence. Then we heard the words: Lynne Moffitt, Princess; Bernard Ladd, Queen!

The students seem to be as excited as the children.

DAYS

The student body had a special treat when the Choir gave their first performance, which included many traditional carols. Dr. Loomis put us in the Christmas mood, too, with his vesper organ recital. Then there was the snow, with sledding and snowball fights and the A.A. caroling party. Then, of course, we had to pack to go home, as we marked off the days.

Finally the night had come. For weeks, we had been buying dolls, trains, wagons, and planes for our Christmas child. The chapel seemed to ring with carols as we searched in the crowd for our child. Then, as his name was called and he ran up and talked to Santa, there were tears in our eyes. We shared his happiness and took him into our hearts.

Nancy and Wendy enjoy frolicking in our first big snow.

Smiles are in order as the girls leave for the holidays.

MARDI

Princess Lynne crowns Bernard Queen of the Mardi Gras Festivities.

For many years, Mardi Gras at Sullins has been the highlight of the year, and 1963 was no exception. With no difficulty we can recapture the night of the presentation. Everyone was tingling with excitment—and then the charming members of the court were presented. Breathlessly we watched as each made her graceful curtsy, and we walked with them every step of the way across the stage.

After the court and pages had been presented, lovely Lynne Moffitt, every inch a princess, walked down the aisle. Then an expectant hush fell over the audience as Queen Bernard Ladd, in her sparkling circle of spotlight, slowly walked toward the stage. She was the perfect picture of grace and elegance—truly a beautiful queen. Assisted by the pages, Lynne placed the crown on Queen Bernard's head. With this thrilling event, Mardi Gras had begun.

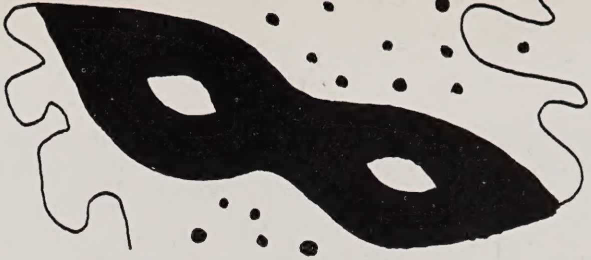
GRAS



There is no one event that is Mardi Gras, for it consists of many activities. The hut party, the recital by Dr. Loomis and Miss Gemmell, the "Pickers" concert, and the reception at the Martins' home—all are what we think of as Mardi Gras.

Ending the events in splendor was the Mardi Gras Ball, held in the grand ballroom of the General Shelby Hotel, with music by Lester Lanin's Travelers. We danced until ten o'clock, at which time the Queen and her court were presented. Appearing through a rose-covered archway, each girl walked the length of the ribbons with her father or date, as the Travelers played appropriate music. Dancing soon resumed and continued until midnight. In the wee hours of the morning, we came back to school, tired but realizing that these were the happy moments we would always cherish.

As the music began and the curtains opened (with the help of two delightful little clowns), the hard work and rigorous training the dancers had gone through really paid off. The scenery, the costumes, and the dances themselves reflected the gaiety and bright colors of the carnival season. They captured us completely and put us in the perfect mood for Mardi Gras.

Gaiety!

A concert by the Sullins Choir is included in the festivities of Mardi Gras.

A reception is given for the parents at the home of President Martin.

The final part of the program was presented by the Sullins Choir under the direction of Mr. Leon Fleming. Guest soloists were Dr. Don Hyatt, Mr. Edwin Miller, and Mr. Hamp Richardson. Selections were sung from "Sound of Music," "My Fair Lady," "Camelot," "West Side Story," and "Showboat."

The melodies of these familiar songs thrilled us and put us even deeper into the Mardi Gras mood. It was an excellent performance and reflected the hard work and creative effort that had gone into its preparation by the choir, the soloists, and the director. The last song, "Tonight," brought our Mardi Gras production to an exciting and tuneful close.

The month of May brings many joys, but most memorable is May Day, that special day honoring the seniors. GRADUATION

Graduation—the long-awaited climax of our lives at Sullins—is upon us. With mixed emotions we say good-bye to the school which has been our home for two years and to the many friends we have made here.

This is a day of sadness and joy—sadness because we, as a class, will never again assemble on this campus—joy because we are ready to apply the ideas and knowledge gained here to our new ways of life, whatever they may be.

Parents and guests are entertained at a reception at President Martin's home.

To the founders, teachers, and administrators whose names stand out in the history of Sullins, we want to pay tribute: Dr. David Sullins, Mrs. Lou Chanceaulme, Mrs. Janie McTyiere Baskervill, Dr. and Mrs. W. Yet these are not the only people who have helped to mold the Sulins traditions. Without the students, with their youth, their dreams, their zest for learning, there could never have been a Sullins College. They came here from every decade and every state to contribute their talents and ideals. To them especially we pay tribute—the Sullins girls of yesterday, today, and tomorrow.

Juniors Face New Experiences at College

As the summer drew to a close, we anxiously anticipated our coming year at Sullins. We'll never forget Orientation Week and the friendly faces that greeted us in the main hall. Fall brought with it our first "Picker" party, trips to the "Island," Rat Week, hut parties and dances, and the beginnings of lasting friendships, which will continue beyond Sullins.

Before we knew it, it was Thanksgiving. Some of us headed home, while others went on the school-sponsored trip to New York.

The winter months rushed in, with much snow, Christmas holidays, exams, a trip to Annapolis, and Mardi Gras, a week end full of exciting events and happy memories.

All of a sudden the time grew shorter and the days longer, and with spring we saw a new side of Sullins. The Kentucky Derby and Bermuda were all we had hoped for.

Much too soon the year drew to a close. Our exams were over, and the summer was ahead. Then, suddenly we didn't want to go home as badly as we thought. We began planning with our friends how we would meet again in the fall and be the "big wheels" on campus, telling the juniors what to do.

As we said our sad good-byes to our best friends, we rode down the curving drive only to look back and remember that it wasn't really the end, that our best year at Sullins—our Senior year—was still ahead of us.

Mardi Gras, Biggest Event of Junior Class

It is a happy moment for the members of the Mardi Gras Court and their escorts.

Everyone enjoys the Mardi Gras Ball, held at the General Shelby Hotel.

All eyes are turned toward the members of the court as each lovely girl is presented.

THE SENIORS

With the rush of exams and practice for graduation, we really haven't had time to recount our memorable experiences at Sullins. All around us are the faces of those we have grown to love so dearly. Now, standing on the hillside, we think of the many times we have anticipated this day—our graduation day.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Bonnie Bain, President; Lea Edson, Vice-President; Judy Sims, Treasurer; Betty Stratton, Secretary; Sandy Stoehr, Social Chairman.

Seniors Complete Two Memorable Years . . .

Indeed those first few weeks were an experience, with the many faux pas that we made and the mounting scare of Rat Week. Then there was the panic of our first fire drill, but the feeling of pride and unity as we sang our Alma Mater for the first time. Suddenly first quarter marks were out, and oh, the telephone calls that went home!

It wasn't long before we realized that we were truly a part of college life, including the Tech dances, our first trip home, snowball fights, and the gaiety of singing with the "Cotton Pickers." By the end of the year, we wished we could have taken all our friends home with us for the summer. We hated to leave them!

Our Senior year has indeed passed all too quickly, and it seemed only yesterday that we were excited about the coming college week end, our Christmas child, and Mardi Gras. Not so traditional but just as important in their own way were the open fires at the "Island," midnight bridge games, the longed-for mail, and the exuberance of spring.

Now our years at Sullins are over. Now each one of us moves on, taking our separate roads and building upon the traditions that we have learned at Sullins. Yet regardless of the span of miles or length of time, our friends here and our happy memories will never be forgotten, for they are a part of us forever.
